

FIELD PREPARATION

The care taken with your trophy in the field will determine the way it will look when mounted. These few precautions will go a long way to insure the best quality mount. Keeping the specimen cold or frozen is most important as even a short period of heat can ruin it.

LIFESIZE MAMMALS:

We prefer to cape your lifesize trophy. DO NOT gut small lifesize mammals such as bobcats, fox, raccoon, etc. Freeze whole or keep on ice until it can be delivered to us. Again, it is critical your specimen is delivered to us as quickly as possible.

BIRDS & FISH:

DO NOT GUT! Freeze the specimen whole. Wrap the specimen in a plastic bag. Birds and fish tend to freezer burn easily and we advise delivery as soon as possible.

SHOULDER MOUNTS:

Begin your initial cut 3 to 4 inches behind the shoulder. Follow cut completely around the torso. Tube the cape up to the neck under the throat. DO NOT CUT THE CAPE ALL THE WAY DOWN THE BACK OF THE NECK. Cut the neck meat 3 to 4 inches behind the ears. Be careful not to cut skin. Store the cape and head on ice or freeze. Get your trophy to us as soon as possible to prevent spoilage. We will cape the face for you. DO NOT CUT THROAT!

We also have a facility in Ingram, Texas that can care for your trophies until we get them. Call for details

TERMS & CONDITIONS

The BALANCE DUE on any amount is due when the mount is picked up. This pickup date shall be no more than thirty (30) days after notification by TAXIDERMIST of completion of the mount. A 10% finance charge of unpaid balance will be added per month until mount is picked up. Unless other arrangements have been made, it is agreed that any mount not picked up within said thirty day period shall become without notice the property of TAXIDERMIST, and as such may be used or disposed of in any manner as TAXIDERMIST'S personal property at the sole discretion of TAXIDERMIST, and the deposit previously given by customer shall be forfeited and become the property of TAXIDERMIST.

TAXIDERMIST shall not be held responsible for damage to or loss of the mount for any reason beyond its control, including but in no way limited to losses resulting from fire, theft, or vandalism.

If during any stage of the taxidermy process any conditions are discovered which preclude proper completion of the mount without the incurrence of labor and/or materials over and above the amounts included in the original price quote, TAXIDERMIST expressly retains the right to either A.) make pricing adjustments or B.) refuse to complete mount. The above conditions include, but are not limited to: cuts or other abrasions to the hide incurred prior to TAXIDERMIST'S acceptance of the trophy for mounting; improper field processing procedures; or any other conditions not directly controllable by TAXIDERMIST. In the event of the discovery of any such condition(s); TAXIDERMIST will promptly notify its customer, and any price adjustments will be mutually agreed upon prior to any further taxidermy work being performed on the mount. If the decision is made to NOT complete the mount. TAXIDERMIST may retain whatever portion of the customer's deposit if necessary to offset expenses incurred.
